Letter No. 542/31, dated the 30th November 1931 from the Superintendent of Archaeology forwarding the Administration Report of the Department of Archaeology for 1106 M. E.

ORDER D. DIS. NO. 100/32/EDN., DATED TRIVANDRUM, 29TH JANUARY 1932.

Recorded.

2. During the year under review, besides the continuance of other works, such as copying of inscriptions, etc., in the State and outside, the Department attempted an exposition of the art of Pantomime (Kathakali) in Kerala, the main feature of which is a highly specialised variety of hand poses (Mudrās) and gestures of the body and limbs. The diagrams prepared by the Superintendent to exemplify the Mudrās have been found to be very instructive.

3. The Superintendent has also undertaken an investigation of the subject of worship and ritual in Kerala temples. The results of this investigation are awaited.

SIR,

I have the honour to forward herewith the Administration Report of the Archaeological Department for the year ending the 31st Karkudakam 1106 M. E. (16th August 1931).

General. There was no change in the staff of the Department. The photographer Mr. D. Srinivasan Potti availed himself of 20 days privilege leave, no substitute being appointed.

Tours. A fairly comprehensive plan of archaeological work was attempted in the itineraries of the Department. I spent 79 days in camp and visited 75 places; and the Pandit-Assistant Mr. K. Sivaramakrishna Sastri camped for 37 days and visited 18 places. In the course of our tours, twenty five new inscriptions were copied from eight different places (Vide Appendix E); and their texts have been subsequently deciphered and transcribed. Thirty two places were visited for the examination of epigraphical records with a view to ascertaining the possibility of further inscriptional work. An exploration was made of 13 places not previously visited to investigate their archaeological importance as well as to collect antiquities; and an inspection of 10 old sites was undertaken for the examination of old monuments and the state of their conservation. Visits were made to 6 places to examine old "olai" records (palm leaf manuscripts) relating to history, religion, architecture and sculpture; and 14 places were visited for the examination and study of typical specimens of art including architecture, stone sculpture, wood work, painting and iconography which are attractive features of our temples. Lastly, Christian antiquities in as many as five places were also examined, and their value and importance estimated. A list of places visited is given in Appendix A.

Epigraphy. An important work of the Department done in the year was in connection with epigraphy. Two Tamil inscriptions dated in Kollam 604 were copied from a rock lying south of the Agastisvaram temple. On examination, they were found to be a continuation of the records Nos. 6 & 7 of 1103. Estampages of five *inscriptions all in Tamil were taken from outside the State, two from Śrīvilliputtūr and three from Tinnevely (Vide Government letter D. Dis. No. 1405 of 30/Edn. dated 8th December 1930). Of the former, one from the Perumāḷ temple states that while the king Śaṅkaranārāyaṇa Venrumankonda Bhūṭala Vīra Udayamārttāṇḍa Varman of Trippāppūr was staying at Valliyūr, he made a gift of land for conducting the services called Vīramārttāṇḍan-Sanḍi in the temple of the Goddess, for feeding thirty three Brahmins daily in the Vīra-Mārttāṇḍan maṭham, also called Tiruvēṅgaḍalāsan maṭham, and for special worship on the day of Suṣāṭi every month. The other one from the Aṇḍāl temple while recording the same gift also mentions the boundaries of the land endowed. Both are dated in Kollam 709 Aḍi 16.

The Tinnevely inscriptions were copied from the Nelliyaṅṅar temple, of which the first two dated in Kollam 721 belong to the reign of Śaṅkili Vīra-Mārttāṇḍa Varma, a Travancore king who does not figure in the inscriptions hitherto discovered by the Department. One of them records that images of 63 Nāyaṇḍars and 9 other saints were made of copper, due puṣās given, and that some additions to the maṇḍapam in front of the central shrine were made, for which certain taxes such as māvaḍai, maravaḍai, pāṭi-vilai, etc., were arranged to be utilised. The other one registers the gift of land by the same king when camping at Chēravannūḍēvi for conducting the service Śaṅkili-Vīramārttāṇḍan sanḍi and for tirupparai in the shrines of Tirukkama-Kōṭattu-Āḷuḍaiya Nacchiyār and Nāyanār in the temple of Tirumelveli Uḍaya Nāyanār. The last one from the Nelliyaṅṅar temple, Tinnevely, defines the boundaries of Kuppāyakkūḍi of Anubhōgavalanāḍu alias Ravivarma-Chaturvēdimaṅgalam, which is a dēvadāna-brahmaḍēta, and given to the Brahmins of Ravivarma Chaturvēdimaṅgalam.

The rest of the inscriptions 15 in number were copied from the Cochin State as per orders of Government; (Vide Government letter D. Dis. No. 1053 of 30/Edn. dated 20th September 1930) and are of importance being in Vaṭṭeḷuttu and mostly relating to Chēra kings. Of these, two are from Paṇṇanpan-taḷi temple of which the one engraved on the base of the Subrahmanya temple, though fragmentary, is clear in its reference to a certain king named Kō-Āḍiccha Irāḷi Irāmar alias Iratāticcha . . . The other, on the base of the ruined vāḷambalam in front of the central shrine of the Śiva temple, registers a sanḍētam between the ār of Tirupparampil and the kōḷ of Ānaiyolukku, and mentions a king Bhūmidhara-Rāyaia Tiravaḍi of Parappār. One inscription belonging to the reign of Rājasinha Perumāḷ was copied from a stone slab kept in the Church of Tāḷakkāḍu near Avittattūr, in which are detailed the boundaries of the land given to certain Vāṇiyars by the śrār of Tāḷskattūr for erecting stalls. We have unfortunately no records to fix the date of this Chēra king; but from paleographical evidence, it is possible to assign it to the 9th or 10th century A. D. Another record was also engraved on the same slab, but it was found to have been damaged.

The next eight inscriptions were copied from the temple of Tāḷi, ~~once~~ a flourishing village. One of them relating to the Chēra king Bhāskara-Iravi, registers a kaccham transaction by the nāṭṭār of 18 nāḍus and adhi-kārikals of Nityavichārēśvara, and states that from the land belonging to Śrīdhara Naṇṇacchi akās Tribhuvana Mādēvi, a certain quantity of paddy was to be given for sāntivīratti, śīravamutū etc. The second refers to certain transactions made by the Tāḷi and Tāḷi adhi-kārars of Nityavichārēśvara on the one side, and the Patāṇāyar of Nedumpurayūr on the other, when Kumaran Iravi of Maṇṇāḍu was ruling the country; and that subsequently during the regime of Kaṇḍan Kumaran of Talikkulam, Iravikkampirān of Nedumpurayūr, the Patāṇāyar ratified the deed with some changes, and gave a śīravu-tilla to the Tāḷi and Tāḷi Adhi-kārars of Nityavichārēśvara. The third is damaged and fragmentary; but refers to an agreement by some persons for the conduct of daily offerings in the temple. The fourth though partly damaged belongs to the 10th year of Yakō-Iravar, and seems to state that while Maṇṇāḍu Kumaran Iravi was ruling the country, a transaction was made. The fifth belongs to the 17th year of the Chēra king Kō-Kōtai Iravi, and refers to a transaction made by the taḷiyār and taḷipātikārars of Nityavichārēśvarā. The sixth registers an agreement during the reign of the Chēra king Kō-Indēśvaran Kōtai between the nāṭṭār of 18 districts and the adhi-kārikal of Nityavichārēśvaran on the one side and Iyakkan . . . on the other. The last two of the Tāḷi records are fragmentary, and refer to some provisions made for worship and offerings in the temple.

The four inscriptions copied from the Siva temple at Avittattūr may also be mentioned among the important epigraphical collections of the year. The first of them which belongs to the 20th year of the Chēra king Kō-Kōtai Iravi registers that some lands were set apart for the temple, and mentions the “āyīravar” or the “thousand” of Avittattūr. Two others are quite damaged; while the fourth records some gifts to the temple for the conduct of Pōjās. Lastly, three fragmentary inscriptions copied from the base of the Śrīmāla-sthānam in front of the Vaḍakkunāthan temple. Trichūr, speaks of one Ravivīra, chief of Vankungganādu as having supplied the said Śrīmālasthānam with a stone basement. Besides these inscriptions, the epitaphs of 12 Portuguese Tombstones unearthed during the Cochin Harbour works were also examined, and their readings noted. (Vide Appendix D.)

Conservation. An aspect of archaeological work which received prominent attention in the year relates to the work of conservation of ancient monuments in the state such as temples and the objects of antiquity abounding in them. A list of such ancient structures noted by the Department has been prepared, and the procedure to be followed in their preservation has already been laid down on general lines by Government in G. O. No. E. 3938 dated 2nd November 1908, and subsequently reiterated in G. O. No. E. 3486/360 dated 2nd October 1915, by which the "Peishears will arrange for information being given to the Superintendent of Archaeology if any historical temple or other building is to be taken up for repair, so as to enable the Superintendent to go to the spot, if necessary, and make any suggestions regarding the preservation of anything of epigraphical, historical or architectural value." The Devaswam and Maramat Departments had been inaugurated in the State since; and the function of the Peishear had naturally devolved upon the Devaswam Commissioner and the Maramat Engineer, in defining whose duties the purport of the two G. Os was lost sight of. With a view to modify the Government order so as to make its provisions binding on the Devaswam Commissioner and the Maramat Engineer, whenever any work of repair, renovation or maintenance etc. was undertaken by their Departments, Government was addressed by me in my letter No. 353/30 dated 15th August 1930, in which I submitted that there has been a considerable growth of archaeological perception in recent years; and instead of only caring for historical monuments, there has arisen an interest in preserving all those beautiful and striking objects of antiquity which not only throw light on past civilisations, but make the past live for the profit of the present and future. In other words, all remains of the past such as buildings, palaces, forts, temples etc. having an architectural, historical or artistic interest, and all memorials of the past contained in them such as inscriptions, paintings, woodwork, sculpture etc. valuable as models of ancient art and handicraft, and any other objects of priceless value and artistic interest which can never be replaced under conditions of modern workmanship, were recommended for conservation. I also submitted that there has been a perceptible loss in aesthetic quality involved in the preservation and renovation of some of the religious edifices of the State, due to the placing of new work in juxtaposition with old, which should as far as possible be avoided. Lastly, Government was requested to take all possible measures through the Devaswam and the Maramat Departments, to prevent antiquities from perishing in the temples, due from want of care, by exposure, or neglect. Government have been pleased to accept my suggestions, and to issue necessary instructions to the Devaswam Commissioner and the Maramat Engineer (Vide Government letter Dis. No. 1231/30/ Mis. dated 28th October 1930) "to consult the Archaeological Department at every stage in all repairs and renovation of ancient monuments, such as temples, palaces, etc, in regard to the best way of conserving the objects of antiquity abiding in them". Government have since been requested by me to take steps for the conservation of the Sundararājappuram temple at Vindaneūta, near Sambarvatikara, and the Chōlaparam temple, both old and historical monuments.

ART OF PANTOMIME- (Kathakali).

At the instance of Lieut. Colonel H. R. N. Pritchard, Agent to the Governor General, and with the sanction of the Dewan, a work not before attempted was taken in hand during the year with a certain measure of success. It relates to the exposition of the Art of Pantomime (Kathakali) in Kerala, the main feature of which is a highly specialised variety of hand poses (Mudrās) and gestures of the body and limbs.

Considerable time was spent in preparing the diagrams of the principal Hand Poses relating to the art and to their interpretation. A short descriptive account of the "Kathakali" with an explanatory note on the gestures and on the subtle devices employed for the expression of the various emotions together with an account of the training actors was prepared under the auspices of Government. The attention of the Congress of orientologists held last September at Leyden was drawn to this work by Prof. Sylvain Lévi, (Vide his letter dated 19th September 1931) who and other eminent scholars and savants like Dr. Winternitz, Dr. A. B. Keith, Dr. A. Kumaraswami, Dr. Barnett, Dr. Vogel, etc., commended my researches in this field.* A chart of Diagrams of the Principal "Mudrās" (Hand Poses) as gathered from Bhavata Nāṭyaśāstra, Hastalakṣhaṇa-Pradīpikā, Kathakali, Chilappatikāyam and Abhinaya Darpana has been since made (Vide plate) and the interpretation of the "Mudrās" is nearing completion.

* Dr. Mahendramatha Tagore and the Municipals of Zeland have since favoured me with their kind appreciation.

WORSHIP AND RITUAL IN KERALA TEMPLES AND THEIR SYMBOLISM.

My studies of the "Mudrās" which are but amplifications for secular purposes of the orthodox types of Tāntric and Māntric symbols (religious and ritualistic symbols) naturally led me to the collection of some useful information on worship and ritual in Kerala temples, and their symbolism, a fascinating subject for investigation. As with all Hindu Ritualistic rites and prescriptions, the real connotation of iconographic symbols in Kerala are shrouded in mystery. Their sense is however embedded in their suggestions appearing in widely different texts specially Mantra Śāstrās, and the ritualistic practices in vogue from early times in Kerala temples. The work has been of a very difficult nature in so far as the symbolism implied in the Trimūrti forms, their śaktis and the main forms of the six groups of Tāntric classifications has been decomplexed by a promiscuous commingling of Māntric, Tāntric and Vedic texts in Malabar. A note on the subject has been prepared.

Architecture. Another item of work relating to the year was in the field of Malabar Architecture, investigations in which was commenced the year before. My attention was mainly given to the collection of material available from the Śilpasastrās on the "Śrī-kōil" or Central shrine, its construction and form. Three kinds of it, the circular, square and oblong shapes have been come across in Travancore, of which the first is the more ancient type. On a careful and comparative study of their structure and component parts, it has been inferred that the Circular śrīkōil is rather indigenous to Malabar.

Miscellaneous. Fair progress was made in the year in the preparation of the Topographical list of Travancore inscriptions collected up to date. The work in connection with the list of antiquities, the collection of Folklore, and the Bibliography of the sources of Travancore history had to be postponed owing to the researches already mentioned in the field of Mudrās, undertaken on the auspices of the Agent to the Governor General and the Government.

Publication. Vol. VII Part 2 of the Travancore Archaeological Series has been seen through the Press. It will be shortly released for distribution and sale. It may be mentioned in this connection that the inscriptions of the Āy Kings in Travancore were published in the year with their text and purport in Malayalam in the Archaeological sheet of the Government Gazette; and this new channel of publicity for the work of the Department has been widely appreciated.
